Supply Teachers

Description

Supply Teachers

I was a class teacher in a London school and I fell out of love with the job I had trained long and hard for. I left my school without a job to go to and was not sure what I wanted to do. I still needed to be earning money to survive so I registered with an agency and became a supply teacher.

It was the best thing I could have done!

I went to dozens of different schools and worked with year groups I would never have considered before. I had the flexibility to work where and when I wanted. I managed to find a better Work/Home Life balance and I learnt a lot about my own teaching and how schools approach the same problems in many different ways. It made me realise that I had not fallen out of love with teaching just the school where I was.

If any of this strikes a chord with you then get in touch. Give supply teaching a try before you turn your back on a truly great profession.

I now recruit teachers throughout the Home Counties and currently I'm trying to build a team of Primary Teachers to help me service schools in Buckinghamshire and Berkshire.

If you would be interested in Day to Day or Long Term Supply Work please get in touch.
